EDITORIAL FOCUS

Turning Pages is an annual magazine of bright voices from all over the world in creative and original writing in English in short fiction, creative nonfiction, and poetry, as well as in film script excerpts, drawings, art projects and many other related genres by students, academics, and writers. It is a production of the English Department at Chemnitz University of Technology, Germany and the first journal of its kind at the university. Turning Pages will make readers not only literally browse through a variety of texts and turn pages, but it also seeks to reflect situations, events, experiences, or emotions that turn the page for individuals, a group of people, a city, a region or even the world.
